after - Easter will soon be fluttering on hall-tables, and the usual slight revival of social gay-eties is to be ex-pected. Several afternoons of the past week have been pleasantly filled with entertain ment, but there has been a dearth of social affairs, noon or evening.

A Washington correspondent says: Inac Mrs. John G. Carlisle will be the social leader in the Cabinet goes without saying. By a residence of seventeen years in Washington she is pre-eminently fitted for the position to which her natural inclinations tend. Thoroughly conversant with the smallest details of official stignets: a kind-hearted woman of official etiquette, a kind-hearted woman of unlimited hospitality, the wife of the Secre-tary of the Treasury will have the first voice and the deciding vote in all matters of mo-ment, and to her will undoubtedly be referred for arbitration all social questions involving intricate issues. During the past few weeks Mrs. Carlisle's health has greatly improved, and, her friends hope, will be completely re-established before the social strain of next season makes fresh demands upon it.

Upon the tables at April dinners will prob Upon the tables at April dinners will probably be seen the prettiest possible sancers for violets, in little sprigged patterns. These sancers have low, pieced covers, through which the stems or violets or other small flowers may be thrust and thus heid in place. The largest of the sancers are the size of a dinner plate, and when the cover is thickly set with violets so that the porcelain is almost or wholly concealed, a dainty center pièce is made for the dinner table, set off with a thick wreath of green violet leaves around it.

Candles and shaded lamps are more used than ever at evening entertainments. The softened light which talls through a delicately tinted shade is very effective, and there is the additional advantage that candles may be placed in any corner one's taste suggests. In one of the large drawing rooms used at a recent afternoon tea, the only light came from the blazing fire which burned in a great open fireplace, and which, as the day was chilly, was most agreeable. To come from the other brightly lighted rooms into this one, with its shadowy corners and dim outlines, was found so pleasant that a tendency to linger here was noticed, and the little groups were not soon broken up.

Fifteen of Miss Harriett Cleland's friends were informally entertained by her Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Dice, of Crawfordsville, and of Miss Helen Finch Connet and Miss Messick. The afternoon was spent in writing and reading what were called "character sketches," A card was given to each guest, upon which were written a number of questions, with space for the answers. Among the questions each was to answer were: "What I enjoy most," "My most agreeable characteristic," "My ideal of a good time," "My unsatisfied wish." Those present were Mrs. Charles Merrill and Miss Margaret Ridgely, Miss Alice Graydon, Miss Valette Miller, Miss Macy Coughlen, Miss Mary Noble, Miss Estelle Rogers, Miss Elizabeth Huff, Miss Julia Ritzinger, Miss Lee, Miss Hunter and Miss Jennings.

Mrs. J. M. Maxweil and Mrs. N. A. Rose gave a 5 o'clock tea this afternoc.: for Mrs. W. W. Grant, who will join her husband at Provi-dence, R. L., in June. Little china Easter eggs

Two plays will be given before the Dramatic Club next Friday evening. For "My Lady Help" the cast is as follows: Jack Desborough, Mr. Francis T. Hord; Lady Eva Desborough, Mrs. Hord; Benjamin. Pennygrass, Dr. Daniel Thompson: In the second play, "Which Is Which," will be Mr. C. A. Lewis as Robert Capper, Mr. Edward Gates as Mr. Gargle, Mr. Walter Williams as Paddles, Miss Armstrong as Annie, Miss Dye as Bertha, Mrs. Harold Taylor as Mrs. Mills. The committee in charge of the performances consists of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Brown, Mr. Wm. F. Landers and Mr. Alvin Lockhard. So much interest has been manifested by the friends of members of the Dramatic Club in the club's performances, that the directors have decided to give a public performance May 2, to which each member will be entitled to invite a limited number of guests, and for which a small admission fee will be charged to members and guests alike, the proceeds to go toward the creation of a stage fund.

The Portfolio Club will meet April 13. Mrs. Gibson will read a paper, illustrated by stereoptican views, and Rubinstein's sonata in D major will be played on the piano and 'cello. Mrs. Schliewen, Miss Layman and Mr. Stem constitute the committee for the evening.

The reports which are made of the rude crowding at Queen Victoria's drawing rooms, if true, indicate a lamentable lack of good manners. Of the one last heid London Truth asys: "The dresses and jewels were magnificent. The crushing and crowding at the various barriers were worse than ever. Several ladies had their trains dashed from their arms, with the result that they came into the throne room with the trains extending in front josome yards, and two or three marrowiy escaped awkward fails. Some Indies, indeed, presented a lamentable appearance."

New York people have not yet trigg of yandsville. The latest occasion of which this sort of performance is a teature is the dinner vandeville. About one hundred gue 43s/were invited to a dinner of this new variety not long ago, and were scated at twelve round tables. In the center of cach table was a silver candelabrum surrounded by a wreath of roses and hiles of the valley resting directly on the cioth. After the dinner was over the tables were removed and a number of vandewille people gave their specialties.

Grain and Fruit Prospects.

Reports of the condition of crops have been received from most of the counties of the State. A few report failures, and a few others that wheat is, what the farmers would say, "spotted." The general outlook for wheat is that the yield will be slightly smaller than that of last year. The farmers are well along with their spring work. Most of the oats is sown, and much ground has been broken for corn. In the northern and central portions of the State the peaches are nearly all killed. In the southern part the usual crop is predicted. In the vicinity of Indianapolis everything is the same as in years previous. Buds of the plum and cherry around Irvington are almost ready to burst forth, and, within the next week, if the weather continues to be fine, the fruit trees in general will have opened their buds. Grain and Fruit Prospects.

The Clericus Meeting. The April meeting of the Indianapolis Clericus will be held at the home of the Rov. W. D. Engle, 866 North Pennsylvania street, Monday morning. The subject of church clubs will be presented by the Rev. J. H. Ranger, and "Christus Comprobator" will be discussed by Bishop Ellicot.

Brakeman Neff, Richard Henry Neff, the L. E. & W. hero, still moves about with much difficulty. At times his pains are exceedingly severe. H's hip gives him the most trouble. With the coming of pleasant weather he hopes to be soon able to "limber up," as he expresses it, and report for duty.

The Monument's Crowning Figure. President Langsdale, of the Monument Comission, has returned from Chicago, where he inspected the crowning figure of the monument. The shipment will be delayed about ten days on account of the recessity of ead-justing the sword in the hand of the statue.

What They Appreciate.

Housekeepers always appreciate bargains as a matter of course, for there would be no pleasure in buying unless it could be by having something real nice to look at and to price. A convenient location is to be considered also. The Feeney Furniture and Stove Company, which is now at 76 and 78 W. Washington st., just across the alley from the Bates House, makes it easy of access for shoppers, and the firm is experiencing a thrifty trade. They have a large, double store packed with the latest style furniture, stoves and carpets, and invite inspection by critical buyers. What They Appreciate.

WM. W. SPENCER. EX-COUNTY ATTORNEY. OF THE LAW PIRM VAN VORHIS & SPENCER.

Among our leading attorneys, there are few more widely known and respected, than Mr. Spencer. He has a few words to say regarding a heretofore considered, incurable affliction:

a heretofore considered, incurable affliction:

Indianapolis, inc., March 26, 1893.

In 1887 I went to Dr. W. H. Nott and consulted him in regard to a case of Hernia, with which I had been afflicted for several years. After an examination, he told me he could cure me. I took my first treatment of him December 25, 1887, and was cured of a direct inguinal on the left side and an oblique inguinal on the right side. The Doctor thoroughly understands the disease of Hernia, and I believe can effect a permanent cure in any case of that disease, in from three to six weeks. I cheerfully recommend all suffering from such an affection to go to him and be treated.

The Dr. Nott Rupture Cure Co., 20% W. Washington Street, offer to the afflicted, the only positive and radical cure for rupture ever discovered. The cure has been proved a permanent one. Dr. W. H. Nott has practiced in Indianapolis 14 years, and for the past nine years has confined his practice to Hernia. No charge is made for examination and consultation. No pay until cured. No knife used. No blood drawn. Pamphlet free by addressing the Dr. Nott Rupture Cure Co., 20% W. Washingington Street, Indianapolis.
